

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Truman The Target

Washington, Jan. 24. — THE more or less trite expression which many persons are more or less intelligently using about the strike situation in the country generally can be almost as accurately applied to the situation of Mr. Truman personally. Concerning the strikes, it is being said that "things will get worse before they get better." Mr. Truman's personal and political troubles, the same words could be used except that at the moment it is not entirely clear how they could get much worse.

FOR the fact is that the unfortunate man is being assailed from all sides. For a good many months Mr. Truman was showered with praise not only from both factions of the party but even from the Republicans. Now, though the Gallup polls still show him strong with the common people, he hardly ever gets a kind word from a politician, Democratic or Republican, or from the leaders of the special groups. He seems to be under a continuous fire from all directions.

CONSERVATIVE Southern Senators of his own party bitterly resent his efforts to force through the fair employment practices bill, which is a feature of the CIO and the Communist party creed. The Democratic "liberals" are enraged at among other things, the presence in the President's "inner circle" of such men as Mr. George Allen, recently named RFC administrator; Mr. Edwin Pauley, named as Under Secretary of the Navy; Mr. John Snyder and others. The business interests feel deeply aggrieved at the degree to which he has espoused the cause of the strikers. On the other hand, the CIO bosses, like Mr. Murray, though eagerly taking advantage of the fact-finding board recommendations, violently denounced the President's proposals as a "vicious betrayal of labor." Mr. John L. Lewis went even farther than that. From these Mr. Hillman, of the CIO-PAC, seems to dissent. In a recent statement he praised the Truman efforts to settle the steel strike. But he is the only exception.

SO MR. TRUMAN seems to be "in the bad" equally with big business and the union bosses; with conservatives as well as liberal Democrats, and with both elements of Republicans, whose temporary nonpartisan completely disappears as the elections approach. Strangely enough, the most virulent of the Truman opponents appear to be the intimate friends of the late Mr. Roosevelt and the journalists who usually reflect their views. These assail Mr. Truman on the general charges of incompetency and ineffectuality and have especially about the Pauley-Allyn appointments, conveniently forgetting the unsavory Mr. Eddie Flynn (paying blocks), Mr. Tommy Corcoran and many others of the Roosevelt favorites who aroused considerable public indignation and could be classed neither as adequate nor competent.

ALTOGETHER then, Truman lot at the moment is far from a happy one. He has almost as bad a press as Mr. Hoover had, and is confronted with domestic problems of really appalling magnitude, most of them inherited from his predecessor, a notoriously poor administrator whose friends now inconsistently shout for competency. Some of Mr. Truman's difficulties are his own fault, but by no means all of them. He has not been able to rise above considerations of political expediency, but then neither did Mr. Roosevelt. And he is obviously afraid to depart from the Roosevelt pro-CIO alliance despite the CIO attack on him.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

CLEANED BY SCRIBES

With the installation of the newly-elected officers of Chalfont Grange, Monday evening, Frank Moll terminated a service record which extends over a period of more than 20 years. Mr. Moll was elected treasurer of the Grange more than two decades ago, and has held that office ever since. When the organization conducted its election last Fall he declined to seek the office, and he was succeeded by Leroy Shutt.

During the meeting, which was attended by about 40 persons, including a delegation from Plumsteadville Grange, Reuben A. Martin spoke of the splendid service record of Mr. Moll, and in behalf of the Grange presented him a wallet.

The forepart of the meeting was in charge of the retiring master, Merrill Fellman.

All officers and directors of the Doylestown Trust Company were re-elected at the annual meeting held Monday. The morning session was devoted to the election of directors and to hearing annual reports, and in the afternoon the directors were inducted into office, and re-organization took place.

The following directors were named: Wesley Bunting, Robert L. Clymer, George Hart, Fred F. Martin, Edwin H. Satterthwaite, William H. Satterthwaite, Jr., Edward O. Stealy, Isaac J. Vanarsdalen and J. Purdy Weiss, Doylestown; Edward W. Fell, Hollingsworth; Stuart M. Hartzel, Chalfont; Harvey D. Hunsberger, Plumsteadville; Abel Landes, Wycombe, and Quintus Lerch, Tinticum.

During the re-organization meeting in the afternoon one new officer, that of assistant trust officer and assistant secretary, was created, and Edwin H. Satterthwaite was named to that office.

Other officers were re-elected as follows: President, William H. Satterthwaite, Jr.; vice-president and treasurer, J. Purdy Weiss; vice-president, Isaac J. Vanarsdalen; secretary and title and trust officer, J. C. Cates, and assistant treasurer, Paul N. Detweiler.

Teachers of the Doylestown schools at a faculty meeting on Tuesday heard officials explain the habilitation set-up as being carried on by the State and Federal governments.

William Anderson, Lafayette College athletic representative, will speak to the pupils of the senior high school next Monday afternoon.

STATE-WIDE HONORS COME TO BUCKS CO.

Neshaminy Farms and The Swanstrom Herd Lead in Milk Production

THE TOMATO RECORD

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24 — State-wide honors in two different dairy cattle breeds went to Bucks County today, and tomato growers of the county were also honored.

Leaders in production were announced at the State Farm Show dairy meetings. Leading herds and individual cows in six breeds were feted for production.

"Dusty," a 5-year-old purebred Ayrshire at the Neshaminy Farms, Newtown, led all Ayrshire cows by producing 13,254 pounds of milk and 661.6 pounds of fat.

The Brown Swiss herd of K. A. Swanstrom, Doylestown, placed third in the state for that breed. Swanstrom's herd averaged 16.35 cows during 1945, and had an average of 10,715 pounds of milk testing 4.03 per cent butterfat for 432 pounds of butterfat per cow.

County Agent Greenwalt also announced that these records will be the last to be compiled by I. O. Sidelmann, who is retiring February 1st, after spending 25 years tabulating Dairy Herd Improvement Association statistics in Bucks and other counties of the state.

Tomato growers of Bucks County had two of their number honored at the State Farm Show for highest quality tomatoes harvested in 1945. The awards, made at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, also included six Bucks County growers qualifying for the "Ten-Ton Tomato Club" in yield.

State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst made the presentations, on the basis of records compiled by Jesse M. Huffington, extension vegetable specialist of the Pennsylvania State College and secretary of the association.

In the class of over seven acres, Clarke Strock, of Springtown, led the state in quality tomatoes when his crop graded 75 per cent U. S. No. 1. County Agent W. F. Greenwalt announced that records show Strock had nine acres averaging 11.37 tons per acre last season.

In the two to seven acre class, Joseph Herman, of Riegelsville, took second place for the state, with 92 per cent of his crop grading U. S. No. 1. Herman had 3.5 acres that averaged 10.11 tons per acre.

Other Bucks County tomato growers who qualified for the "Ten-Ton Tomato Club" were: —

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Klegman (Distributed by International News Service)

My flak-finding board reports that current strikes were touched off by a radio contest. Thousands who started to write "I hate Jack Benny" letters for prizes found they hated the boss more for free.

In Buffalo, Bethlehem Steel is landing supplies by plane and the CIO is pressing a claim to jurisdiction in the stratosphere. They say that labor has more reasons to be up in the air than industry.

If these airborne landings continue, strike headquarters will be equipped with radar and flying belts will be issued to parapickets.

In New York we are eagerly awaiting another illogical reason for a transportation strike. Millions who had planned a mid-week vacation had to get up and go to work when the first pale reason faded away.

Mayor O'Dwyer said the city would not sell its power stations to a private utility without a referendum. This was a great relief to motorists. They had been worrying about it — Mr. Quill told them.

Crisis follows crisis — now the price of cheddar cheese is going up.

OF COURSE IT'S INFLATION!

You can't cure diphtheria by calling it measles. Neither can you control inflation by calling it something else — not even a "hold-the-line-against-inflation" drive.

President Truman's annual message outlining the tragic state of the union is full of warnings against the evils of inflation and of promises to use price controls and subsidies to fight it.

For that matter, the late President Roosevelt, who started the present New Deal spiral, said to Congress on March 10, 1933, the following:

"Too often in recent history liberal governments have been wrecked on rocks of loose fiscal policy."

Inflation is not a matter of language. It is a result of acts and policies. The words of President Truman — all 25,000 of his words in the annual message — may be ever so anti-inflationary; but if the program itself spells inflation, then we are on the way for more of it.

Consider some of the various inflationary devices which Mr. Truman has recommended:

WAGES. He threw away wage controls at the end of the war, steamed up labor for the present demands repeatedly he has endorsed large increases. He has asked boosts in Federal wages, boosts in Unemployment Compensation payments (by 25 per cent) and a big jump in minimum pay. This is all distinctly inflationary.

MONEY. The debt reduction part of the Truman budget is merely a tricky scheme for turning part of the nation's debt into what will pass for money. This is currency inflation.

SPENDING. Except for direct war expenses, every other phase of national expenditure shows a large increase. Sixteen billions of dollars, many times more than any other peacetime amount, would go for military affairs. His own part of the spending, the allocation to the White House, would double the peak during the war — would be boosted from $2,449,629.06 in 1945 to $5,123,100. The budget itself is ten times higher than the average national budget during the twelve Republican years from 1920 to 1932. Needless to say, this is pure inflation.

EXONERATE ENGINEER IN DEATH OF A MAN

Prove That All Warning Signals Were Operating; Victim, W. C. Harper

A CORONER'S INQUEST

SOUTHAMPTON, Jan. 24 — A coroner's jury this week exonerated Tom Thomas W. Cleveland, 1244 E. 12th street, Philadelphia, who was the engineer of a freight train which collided with a car driven by V. Carroll Harper, of Jenkintown, killing Harper instantly, January 11. Bucks Co. Coroner J. Alfred Hilly conducted the inquest.

Coroner Hilly, who told the jury the inquest was held to determine whether the blinkers of the railroad crossing were working when the accident happened, produced several witnesses who testified the signal warning light were in perfect operation.

Harper was driving his car north on the Second Street Pike when it collided with a freight train traveling west on the Newtown-Philadelphia Division of the Reading railroad.

Chief of Police Clarence Heppel, of this place, who investigated the accident, said the warning blinkers were working.

Dr. Gomer Williams, local physician, pronounced Harper dead immediately after the crash.

A witness, William R. Strohecker, who testified the blinkers were working, said the whistle on the engine was sounded and the bell was ringing.

Anthony Staab, a fireman, testified the blinkers were flashing on and off and that the whistle had sounded.

Because it was a camel-back type locomotive, the engineer, Thomas W. Cleveland, was unable to see the car, but he testified he obeyed all the whistle signals along the road and that the blinkers were working.

Members of the jury were Walter R. Finney, Clarence C. Kohl, William H. Stahl, Louis Kaufman, Frank M. Severns and Horace H. Beans.

Mrs. Blanche Hilbert, Beaver St., announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Inez Hilbert, to John Houston, S. I. C. son of Mr. and Mrs. William Houston, of Erie, Tenn. The ceremony took place January 18th at Rossville, Ga. The couple spent the past few days in Tennessee and Georgia.

To Consider Improvements To Historic Shrines

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24 — (INS) — The Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission was slated today to meet at the State Capitol February 7 to consider recommendations to Gov. Edward Martin for the improvement of historic shrines.

Donald A. Cadzow, executive director, said a Commission committee would consider recommendations for the improvement of shrines such as William Penn's mansion at Pennsbury in Bucks County, the Ephrata Cloisters and the flagship Niagara at Erie.

In addition, designs for the first 500 markers to be placed along highways near historic spots will be selected by the committee, Cadzow reported.

"My Treat!"

(By "The Stroller")

An employee of a Bristol gasoline station, eager to show his appreciation to three friends who had accompanied him to a Philadelphia hospital to give blood transfusions to a relative, informed that he would treat them to a steak dinner.

After the hospital visit the four entered a Philadelphia restaurant, where the self-appointed host informed the waitress to serve anything the other three ordered and to make out one check only, presenting it to him.

The food was good, and proper gustatory appreciation was shown when it was served. With the meal completed the men donned their overcoats, the three guests making their way to the exit as their host reached for the check and prepared to pay. A hand went into one pocket, then another, and still another, but not a red cent could be found. There he stood, penniless (at least for the moment), with a sizeable bill in his hands and not a friend in sight. His explanations sounded hollow, and finally the cashier accompanied the Bristolian to the street to sight the other three men. But they couldn't be found. In fact, the localite, in his embarrassment and confusion, had trouble finding his car.

But when this was at last located, with the three men taking their ease and content in the "treat" they had just had, they were approached with the suggestion that they "dig down" so their host could be free to return home. And providing good sports they "chipped in" temporarily.

Atomic Bomb To Be Tested in Pacific in May

Washington—Congress was told today that the destructive force of the atomic bomb will be tested against sea power next May in the Pacific by America alone, using 97 target vessels, including 32 warships. Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy informed the Senate Atomic Energy Committee that a joint U. S. Army-Navy air-sea task force manned by 20,000 men will conduct the experiment early in May in the Marshall Islands.

Observers in the initial history-making trial will be limited to American military and naval personnel, U. S. press, radio and scientific representatives and members of Congress. Blandy said: "This undertaking is not a combined or international operation, but rather a scientific experiment by the United States Government alone."

The first experiment will be carried out by Joint Task Force One under Blandy's overall command in Bikini Atoll, 170 miles east of Eniwetok in the former Jap-held Marshall Islands.

One German and two Japanese warships will help comprise the "guinea pig" fleet, which will include 32 combatant vessels. A second test is scheduled for July and another in 1947.

Army Air Forces planes will drop the mighty atomic bomb. In the first experiment in May, the bomb will be exploded in the first test several hundred feet above the ships.

In the second test scheduled for July the atomic bomb will be exploded at surface level. An underwater explosion experiment in the open sea is planned for 1947.

Restaurant Inspections To Be Annually, Hereafter

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24 — (INS) — Annual sanitary inspections of restaurants under the 1945 licensing law were authorized today by the State Advisory Health Board instead of quarterly examinations.

Inspections of public eating and drinking establishments were previously required every three months. The Board pointed out, however, that inspections may be held "much oftener as circumstances in connection with certain establishments may indicate."

The regulation covering cleaning and disinfection of utensils was changed to require that the germicidal agent "shall be of demonstrated efficiency" through certification by laboratory tests or a manufacturer's report. The former rule specified that the Health Secretary approve the disinfectant.

Local authorities conduct the tests in cities, boroughs and first class townships while the Department handles examinations in second class townships.

A GREAT TASK WELL DONE

The global role of the naval transport service in winning the war has been told in a report and analysis prepared under the direction of Rear Admiral J. W. Reeves, Jr., its commander. It is the revealing document of a flying supply arm that became a fleet command in itself, with 429 sky transports and 26,604 in its personnel.

The figures, showing a high of 39,732,000 ton miles flown in August, 1945, over a vast network of routes totalling 63,251 miles, are for the record. The gripping human story and the real importance of the work lie in the vital contributions to battles won, in lives saved and in morale kept high.

In countless instances NATS fliers supplied the one vital link necessary to forge a complete chain of material support for the success of a planned tactical operation. It was in the Pacific war, where time and distance were of the element, that the transport service made its greatest contribution to victory.

Flame throwers were in critical demand at Tarawa. In Chicago, the only source of supply, NATS loaded five flights and landed 25,000 pounds of them on Tarawa. During the Okinawa campaign NATS provided a shuttle to Guam, evacuating wounded from the battle and flying shells back.

NATS was everywhere, performing countless tasks. It delivered key personnel where it was needed quickly. It carried the mail. It delivered life-giving blood and plasma. It flew a giant propeller in pieces to a disabled battleship.

The air transport service was the Navy's answer to the challenge of "Too little and too late." It earned its right to be a permanent and integral part of America's military establishment. The armed services and the people of the nation salute NATS.

HIP, HIP—HOORAY!

"Spring is busting out all over" in New York style centers, where the good word is that hips and hoop skirts will beat the first robin to the public eye. Though not quite matching the Civil War silhouette, the newly favored outline of femininity is reported to indicate a definite postwar trend, featuring square hips, padded hips and other manifestations of solidity—which seems enough to give pause to feminine reducers.

Conceivably, spring may be something to look forward to—"an era of elegance, femininity and ultimate exposure as women dress to the teeth to welcome home their warrior husbands," as one top-flight designer put it. The phrase "dress to the teeth" fairly can be presumed to have been used figuratively. At the same time, where fashionable display runs to extremes, there may be a hazard of war renewed on the home front.

Many a returning hero has been given a key to the city only to discover it would not unlock the door to even a two-room apartment.

OF COURSE IT'S INFLATION!

SUBSIDIES. The President calls for enlargement of the direct and indirect government subsidies by which the sham of "price fixing" is carried on and the excess of true cost passed on to the taxpayers. This procedure is strongly inflationary, because open prices are known and therefore can be watched, while hidden prices can expand hugely before the public becomes aware of what is happening.

SCARCITIES. While the President calls for full "employment" and "full production," he offers no suggestions for obtaining either. On the contrary, he foresees a continuation of the "planned scarcity" era through a sort of national slowdown.

CONTROLS. While it is not always understood that over-regulation by the government of activities which should be under private enterprise is inflationary, this is true. The reason is that bureaucratic administration piles up administrative overhead faster than production. Total government always eats itself out of house and home. President Truman demands all economic war controls be extended and intensified.

BUYING POWER. Many economists and public figures are beginning to translate the present inflationary pressures into the somewhat over-simplified statement that buying power has got too far ahead of supply of consumer goods. Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said recently:

"The primary source of the inflation danger which overhangs the domestic economy on all fronts is the vast accumulation of currency and bank deposits at the disposal of the public."

What is the President's program in relation to this point? It is greatly to increase the buying capacity, just when the head of his Reserve banks says it should be reduced. Every wage increase, every foreign loan and every slippery scheme of issuing "money" backed by debts instead of assets has the result of putting money and more credit into buyers' hands.

INTEREST RATES. A phase of the national situation which is attracting more attention recently is the extremely low interest rates the government insists on maintaining. The interest on the war debt runs about 1.91 per cent, and the government is fighting to keep all other interest rates in line, for fear of two results if the rate goes out of control: first, that the cost of supporting the national debt would be greatly increased; second, that the money now invested in war bonds and other securities would be lured to private fields if it could earn a better profit.

Yet everything which destroys the attractiveness of the earning power of money is inflationary. Low interest rates makes for uneasy currency; everyone who has it wants to spend it for something else. The President has called for stringent measures to keep down interest rates.

At one sole point does the President stand reasonably firm, and that is in prices. But prices are a result, not a cause of inflation; he might as well try to warm a room by holding a match to the thermometer.

We are head over heels in inflation, and going deeper. Now it's up to Congress to get us out.

HE WOULD have done better if, in these respects, he had not followed the Roosevelt policies. Nor has he greatly improved matters by his message, sound enough in many respects but not a document to arouse great enthusiasm in any group—nor one to placate his critics. However, from the political angle there are some highly convincing facts for Mr. Truman's friends. One is that while the assaults of the Southern conservative Democrats and the Northern liberal Democrats combined with united Republican support and CIO antagonism may seem right now a frightening array, it is not anything like as bad as it looks.

THE REASON is simple enough. The conservative Southern Democrats, as they always do, will support the Democratic nominee in 1948. And the "liberals" of the Roosevelt following, along with the hostile union bosses, literally have no place else to go. By no stretch of the imagination can it be believed that the Republicans will nominate a candidate or adopt a platform that will go as far in their direction as the Democrats.

ARM SCHOOL PLANS ITS GOLDEN JUBILEE

100 Outstanding Leaders to Attend Affair in Phila. On Feb. 5th

MANY TRAINED THERE

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 24 — The golden jubilee inaugural luncheon of the National Farm School to be held at the grand ballroom of the Warwick Hotel, Philadelphia, on February 5th, will be attended by 100 outstanding women and men of Philadelphia and suburban areas.

In 1896 a group of Philadelphians set down together and signed the charter of the National Farm School for the purpose of training youth into becoming scientific and practical agriculturists. Among them were Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, Benjamin Gimbel, Howard A. Loeb, Samuel Lit, Joseph Snellenberg, Harry E. Kohn, Leo S. Rowe and others.

According to Harry Shapiro and David H. Plect, well known Philadelphians and co-chairmen of the luncheon committee, the three surviving signers of the Farm School charter have been invited as guests of honor. They are Howard A. Loeb, Leo S. Rowe and Harry E. Kohn. Also taking an active part in the luncheon plans are Morris Wolf, Ellis Gimbel, David Burpee, Louis A. Hirsch and many others. James Work, of Rush Valley Farms, Rushland, is treasurer of the golden jubilee inaugural luncheon committee.

The jubilee luncheon is but one of the numerous events planned for 1946 by National Farm School's jubilee committee.

KNOW YOUR STATE

The 17th of January, 1946, was the 40th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, Pennsylvania's greatest citizen.

In all human history there are few men worthy to be set beside Franklin for the versatility and brilliance of their achievements. A poor boy, with no start in life but that provided by his own energy and ability, he became one of America's most successful businessmen, its greatest man of science, its leading statesman, and its most practical citizen. A mere catalogue of Franklin's achievements presents an astonishing picture of the importance of one man's life to the future of his nation and of the world.

In science, working with crude instruments and far from any sources of instruction, he discovered the nature of atmospheric electricity and proved the existence of positive and negative electricity. In so doing he founded a whole branch of science of incalculable importance to man. He formed a correct theory as to the origin of prevailing storms, as to the course of the Gulf stream and the nature of water spouts. He invented the lightning rod, the bifocal spectacle, and the first practicable device for the central heating of homes.

As a citizen he is responsible for the first organized fire protection and for the paving and cleaning of streets; for the invention of a practical street lamp; for the founding of the first circulating library; the first hospital and the first school in which the English language was the basis of higher education — a school which afterwards became the University of Pennsylvania. He established the first Provincial Militia, organized the North West Territory, and instigated the first issuance of paper money.

As a statesman he early proposed a plan for the union of the English colonies in America. He brought about the repeal of the British Stamp Act. He persuaded France to come to the assistance of the united colonies in their struggle for independence. He negotiated the Treaty of Peace with Great Britain. He was the Chairman of the First Constitutional Convention of the United States which adopted the Articles of Confederation. He was the first Post Master General of the United States and was three times reelected as the President of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

With only two or three years of common school education, he became one of America's foremost men of letters, a member of the Royal Society of Great Britain which bestowed on him the Copley medal for his scientific discoveries and in France was acclaimed "The First Citizen of the World".

FASHION PARADE

By Max Factor

(Noted Hollywood Make-Up Expert Writing for I. N. S.)
HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Do you have a logical, sensible, effective attitude toward your sport-wear grooming?

Appropos of this, the writer must point out that a woman should favor for her sport-wear appearances a make-up which will not interfere with the activities which she contemplates by demanding frequent repair, or which is not so obviously of the full make-up type of the evening that its appearance is distinctly out of character with the occasion.

Make-up for sport-wear should be conservative in appearance, and somewhat capable of protecting the complexion from sun and wind.

Just consider this subject along these logical lines: Such things as high heels are obviously ridiculous for golfing costumes. And, too colorful or formal make-up effects would be just as ridiculous on the golfer.

And also consider how appearing on a golf course with an ornate and complicated hair-do, one obviously designed for evening appearances, would be altogether comparable with going shopping for your groceries in an evening gown.

If you have a normal or somewhat dry skin it is especially imperative that you use make-up foundation if you indulge in much outdoor activity. Such foundation will greatly aid in the prevention of undue drying of the skin.

Those who go in for much swimming or sun-bathing, with consequent exposure of considerable portions of the body, should remember to cosmetically protect the exposed skin areas as much as possible. Suntan oil is highly advisable for such skin protection.

Wind and cold can damage your complexion as much as the sun. For protective purposes, it is best for your skin and your appearance if you wear make-up whenever you go out, with make-up foundation being particularly important to such protection.

And if at any time your skin shows signs of becoming chapped or over-dry from exposure, don't neglect the use of skin cream or hand lotion in order to get the skin back to a normal and attractive softness.

Sun and wind have drastic effects on the hair as well as on the skin. The woman who wants to spend a great deal of time outdoors should wear head covering as much as practically possible.

Otherwise her hair may become dry, brittle, and faded.

FAIR SEASON OF '45 IS MOST PROFITABLE

Gross Revenue for Penna.
Fairs Totals $1,059,757
In Year Just Ended

ATTENDANCE IS LOW

By Suzanne Flick
(I. N. S. Penna. Farm Editor)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 24.—(INS)—The 1945 fair season proved to be the most profitable on record for Pennsylvania.

State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst reported gross revenues totaling $1,059,757 at the 88 county and community fairs last year, "the first million-dollar year since 1937 when gross receipts from 79 fairs amounted to $1,017,622."

Fifty-five fairs reported receipts for the 1944 season of approximately $765,000, he said.

He pointed out, however, that the net income amounted only to $307,917 last year.

"Expenses, exclusive of premiums, totaled $751,840, the highest of the war years," Horst said. "The amount was $112,000 less than the all-time high reached in 1938."

Attendance remained low due to wartime transportation difficulties, Horst stated. Fair fairs numbered 1,068,983 in 1945 compared with a pre-war average of about 3,000,000, but represented an increase from the crowd of 1,324,410 which thronged the shows in 1944.

Receipts from concessions at 1945 fairs approximated $205,047, approximately $55,000 less than the record mark of $259,724 established in 1941.

Premium payments last year totaled $95,393, a drop of $65,000 from the highest figure of 1940, it was reported. Approximately $40,042.76 was contributed by the State.

The State Agriculture Department has reported that 2,460,000,000 eggs were produced by Pennsylvania hens during 1945, a 12 per cent drop from the 1944 record.

The December output amounted to 198,000,000 eggs, a decrease of 10 million from December, 1944, but a 35 million increase over November, 1945, officials stated. The number of layers on Pennsylvania farms in December was estimated at 17,518,000, with the average monthly output per hen reaching a new high of 11.

Prices received for eggs in December averaged 53.8 cents a dozen while the live-weight cost of chickens was 25.9 cents a pound.

It required the value of 78 eggs to purchase 100 pounds of feed compared with 76 in November and 77 in December, 1944.

Pennsylvanians will not be left high and dry in event of a meat famine caused by strikes, according to the State Agriculture Department.

Officials said approximately 12,000,000 pounds of cold storage chickens were on hand and that stockpiles were increasing.

"There should be a good supply of both fowl and eggs for some weeks to come," a spokesman predicted.

A new record of 5,261,000,000 pounds of milk was produced during 1945, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

The new mark was six per cent higher than the 1944 output, officials stated. December milk production was figured at 362,000,000 pounds, one per cent lower than that of November, 1945, and six per cent below that of December, 1944.

It required the value of 78 eggs to purchase 100 pounds of feed compared with 76 in November and 77 in December, 1944.

Pennsylvanians will not be left high and dry in event of a meat famine caused by strikes, according to the State Agriculture Department.

Officials said approximately 12,000,000 pounds of cold storage chickens were on hand and that stockpiles were increasing.

"There should be a good supply of both fowl and eggs for some weeks to come," a spokesman predicted.

A new record of 5,261,000,000 pounds of milk was produced during 1945, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

The new mark was six per cent higher than the 1944 output, officials stated. December milk production was figured at 362,000,000 pounds, one per cent lower than that of November, 1945, and six per cent below that of December, 1944.

Canned salmon from the ice cold waters of Alaska is just as much of a treat as it always has been here in the United States.

We serve it in many ways, from sandwiches and salads to elaborate "creamed with mushrooms."
